MIT Enterprise Forum of NYC Presents:

Dr. Robert Metcalfe - Internet Pioneer, Inventor Businessman and Entrepreneur

For this year's 2014 kickoff event, we will be joined by Dr. Robert Metcalfe, who currently serves as Professor of Innovation and Murchison Fellow of Free Enterprise in The University of Texas at Austin's Cockrell School of Engineering. Dr. Metcalfe will join the club to give his perspectives on the present and future of technology and innovation as well as its impact on society. He will also share his experiences and career as an engineer, businessman, venture capitalist and research professor.

Dr. Metcalfe was an Internet pioneer at MIT starting in 1970 and in 1973 received his PhD from Harvard for "Packet Communication." He invented the Ethernet in 1973 and founded 3Com Corporation (now part of HP) in 1979.

Dr. Metcalfe has received numerous industry awards and recognition including the ACM Grace Hopper Award in 1980, the IEEE Alexander Graham Bell Medal in 1988, the IEEE Medal of Honor in 1996 and the National Medal of Technology in 2005. Dr. Metcalfe is also a Life Member of the MIT Corporation.

Dr. Metcalfe will be joined and interviewed by fellow MIT alum and FOX News' National Security Analyst and FOX News contributor Kathleen Troia "K.T." McFarland. K.T. Ms. McFarland anchors FOX News.com's DEFCON3, writes a regular column for the FOX Opinion page and is also the weekly national security commentator for several national radio shows. McFarland has held national security posts in the Nixon, Ford and Reagan Administrations. She served as an aide to Dr. Henry Kissinger, Senior Speechwriter to Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger and a Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense spokesperson.
